ORIGINAL RIVER HOME TURNED INTO FUNKY

With a flare for funky and an eye for stylish the owners of this original River side home have just completed a remarkable transformation. It was like watching an episode of Renovation Rescue and the challenge that the professional builder had been given, was by anyone's standards a mammoth challenge. The challenge was this..... "Give us a new kitchen, new bathrooms, remove the old laundry and give us a new one, provide built in robes that are spacious and new, and then please completely refurbish the entire fittings and furnishings". The team work began and with a strict brief of ensuring that the original character of this trendy home remained an integral part of the end result the builders and the owners completed the project in May this year. Brand new carpet and brand new timber flooring was then laid to add the finishing touches and the masterpiece was complete. One month later a change in the owners circumstances has forced the resale of this valuable property. It wont take much research to recognise how scarce these original homesteads are ever sold. Some of the neighbours have in fact owned homes in this street for over 40 years and will never consider selling. This one must be sold and it provides an extremely rare opportunity to buy in this tightly held precinct and secure a slice of real estate gold.
